Use of "cookies"

Web servers track basic information about their visitors. This information includes, but is not limited to, IP addresses, browser details, timestamps and referring pages. None of this information can personally identify specific visitors to this site. The information is tracked for routine administration and maintenance purposes.

A cookie is a data file that certain Web sites write to your hard drive when you visit them, and cookies are used to track the pages you've visited. The only personal information a cookie can contain is information you supply yourself. A cookie can't read data off your hard disk. You can refuse cookies by turning them off in your browser. Where necessary, AMP may use cookies to enable you to retrieve fresh quotes, store information about a visitor's preferences and history in order to better serve the visitor and/or present the visitor with customized content.

Note that you can change your browser settings to disable cookies if you have privacy concerns. Consult your browser documentation for instructions on how to disable cookies and other tracking mechanisms.

Security

AMP ensures that your data are protected against theft, loss, and corruption, misuse and alteration of client data stored on our servers. All AMP employees are aware of our security procedures and client information is only available to selected employees who require the information to lock-in prices and settle orders.
